ACCREDITED!!

All of us here at the Society for Quality in Healthcare in Nigeria (SQHN) are delighted to announce that our standards have been accredited by the International Society for Quality in healthcare (ISQua) headquartered in Ireland.

ISQua is an international body which grants approval to Accreditation Bodies in the area of healthcare as a mark of uniformity of accreditation program of member countries.

Today, SQHN becomes the first in Nigeria to attain such status, making Nigeria the first in West Africa to have hospital standards' accredited by ISQua.

This is a great milestone for this organization because it gives us the ability to formulate standards of excellence through programs that can be used to evaluate and improve the quality of care across hospitals, public and private, and other health care centres in Nigeria.

A giant step has been made today, now time to heal the future!!
